Title and Code of Course: Past and present of Budapest (five walks) - Urban sociology

Instructor's Name: CSANÁDY, Márton Ph.D. Univ. Coll. Professor

Instructor's Email Address: marton@csanady.hu / csanady.marton.tamas@kre.hu

Credit Point Value: 6	Number of Lessons per Week: Every two weeks 180 minutes. Six times.	Type of Course: Seminar X Lecture ☐	Method of Evaluation: Oral Examination ☐ In-Class Presentation ☐ Other X

Course Description:

This course will be an irregular one: six walks in the city following a short introduction. We will try to understand the past and present of Budapest. We are going to visit different kinds of museums: the Lutheran Museum, the Hungarian Jewish Museum, the Budapest History Museum, and the Museum of Trade and Tourism. We are also going to visit churches, synagogues and private homes of public figures of past ages. As history and modernity mingle in Budapest, there are countless architectural masterpieces, secret gardens, and small wonders, which are, however, hidden from the unexperienced eyes. How did people live in Budapest during past centuries and how do they live today in this immortal city?

Every two weeks 180 minutes. Six times.

Evaluation: Your grade will be based on two paper assignments.

Bibliography:

Kaiser, Anna (1979) The town reconstruction of Óbuda and the protection of its archeological monuments. Ac*ta Technica Academiae Scientiarum Ilungaricae*, Tomus 88 (1 -4), pp. 171-183 (1979)

Székely , György (1973) Roman heritage and medieval development in hungarian urban life. Acta Antiqua_21__pages 341-353.pdf

Székely , György (1976) Towns and Languages in East Central Europe. Acta Historica 1976 (22) 429-440. pp.;

Klaniczay, Gábor (1990) Daily Life and the Elites in the Later Middle Ages; the Civilized and the Barbarians. EtudesHistoriquesHongroises_03__pages81-96.pdf

Géra, Eleonóra (2019) "Mulier Imperiosa": The Stepfamilies of Eva Elisabetha in Buda in the First Half of the Eighteenth Century. Hungarian Historical Review 8, no. 4 (2019): 789–811

Gyimesi, Emese (2020) The Stepfamily from Children's Perspectives in Pest-Buda in the 1860s. Hungarian Historical Review 9, no. 4 (2020): 693–724

Szegedy-Maszák, Mihály (2007) The intellectual and cultural scene in the dual monarchy. Hungarian Stud.2i. 2007.1-2. 261-295

Nagy, Ildikó (1982) The character of hungarian art nouveau as reflected in hungarian research (1959 — 1981) MTA_Acta Historiae Artium_28__pages393-437.pdf

Gyáni, Gábor (2017) Metropolitan development and modernity: a phenomenological approach. Philosophy, Communication 2017, Vol. 25, 145–154.

Gyáni, Gábor (2004) Image versus identity: assimilation and discrimination of hungary's jewry. Hungarian Studies_2004_2__pages31-40.pdf

Gyáni, Gábor (1986) A Chapter of the Social History of Hungarian Women Female Domestic Servants on the Labour Market, Budapest (1890-1940) Acta Historica Academiae Scientiarum Hungaricae 32 (3—4) pp. 365—391

Katus, László (1990) Multinational Hungary in the Light of Statistics. Etudes Historiques Hongroises_02_pp127-146.

Pók, Attila (1994) Modern sociology and modern art in early twentieth century hungary. HungarianStudies_1994__pages67-73.pdf

Perényi, Roland (2012) Urban Places, Criminal Spaces: Police and Crime in Fin de Siècle Budapest. Hungarian Historical Review 1, no. 1–2 (2012): 134–165

Bierbauer, Virgil. (1937) The architecture of Hungarian baths. Tér és forma_1937 pages429-434.pdf

Zádok, Anna (1970) Palladianism in the eclectic architecture of Hungary. Acta Technica Academiae Scientiarum Hungaricae, Tomus 67 (1 4), pp. 125-163

Szívós, Erika (2012) Bonds Tried by Hard Times: Jews and Christians on Klauzál tér, Budapest, 1938–1945* . Hungarian Historical Review 1, no. 1–2 (2012): 166–199

Szalai, Boglárka (2012) The influence of urban environment on immigrants' integration in Józsefváros and Kőbánya. Review of sociology 22. évf. 4. sz. (2012), p. 73-92.