Course Description:

Centering around four modules – Multiculturalism, Canadian Urban and Rural Experience, Canadian Social Issues, Canadian Identity – the inter-, and multidisciplinary course will cover issues which lie at the very heart of contemporary Canadian society.

The course aims at developing students' critical thinking and communicative competence as well as it enables students' acquisition of theoretical knowledge related to the above subject areas and its practical application through the analysis of literary & art works and statistical data.

Students attending the course are going to write several pop-quizzes based on the material that is covered in the seminars. They are also going to deliver one ppt-based oral presentation on the topic of their choice. They are expected to fully participate in the in-class discussions and do their homework regularly. All students attending this course must understand that they can miss only 3x90 minutes without any further consequences. Students will be given a final grade based on their contribution to course work, their presentation and quiz results, and the completion of their home assignments.
