Course Description:
This course delves into the design and execution of quantitative research projects in applied linguistics. Students will gain insight into formulating research questions, selecting appropriate quantitative methods, and different data collection techniques. During the course, the design process of questionnaires and experiments will be featured, together with the potential platforms to build them. No prior statistics knowledge is assumed; however, the course ERPB-MAD 3451 Statistics is very closely connected to it (held right after the Statistics course). The two seminars should be taken together. Assessment is based on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Active participation (no more than three absences allowed, illness included), preparation for each class: 10% - Reading assignments: 30% - End-term paper: 60%
