

Title and Code of Course: ERPB-MAD 2279 International Relations 1: Hungary and the English-Speaking World

Instructor's Name: Ágnes Beretzky Ph.D

Instructor's Email Address: beretzky.agnes@kre.hu

Credit Point Value:	Number of Lessons per Week: 2X2	Type of Course: Seminar <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Lecture <input type="checkbox"/>	Method of Evaluation: Oral Examination <input type="checkbox"/> In-Class Presentation <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Other <input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
---------------------	----------------------------------------	------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

Course Description:

The main aim of the course is to deepen the students' knowledge in the major trends in Central European History, with special attention to Hungary and her relations with the major countries of the English-speaking world, primarily Britain and the United States.

With the help of the (museum) assignments they will familiarize themselves with Hungarian history and culture and understand the intersection of local issues in global contexts in the Central European region. The objective of oral presentations the students ought to prepare is to provide a comparison of social, political and economic perspectives of Hungary and their countries of origin

Bibliography:

Brian Cartledge. The Will to Survive, A History of Hungary. London: Hurst&Company, 2011.
Agnes Beretzky. Text and Workbook to the Modern Hungarian History Course. University of New Hampshire, Study Abroad Program-Edition, Massachusetts, USA, 2014.
John Lukacs. Budapest 1900. New York, 1988.
Martyn Rady. The Middle Kingdoms: A New History of Central Europe. Basic Books, 2023.