Course Description:

The aim of this survey course is to provide an overall view about the literature of England in the Middle Ages from the 6th to the 15th century. We will read texts of different genres, and place them in the socio-historical background of the era. Our readings will include heroic epic, courtly romances, fabliaux, mystery and morality plays. Each class will include a five-minute quiz on the day's reading assignment, and challenging class discussions. Besides regular attendance, assessment will be based on in-class activity, a short presentation and an in-class test
