Course Description:

The lengthy dialogue and polemics between the ancient Greek philosophy and the emerging Early Christian theology produced not only a lot of interesting arguments in the history of human thinking about existence, transcendence etc., but had also brought about new developments in various areas of social interaction, for example a new understanding of one's own identity, of 'religion' and 'religiousness' etc. Why would a Greek philosopher label his Christian contemporaries as 'simple-minded' and why would other pagan thinkers become Christians, some even asserting that Plato was in fact a Greek Moses? As we pursue the depth of these discussions, we shall find a lot of similarities between the two systems, moreover: the flux of ideas and solutions do not follow only one way. Christian theology is influenced by Greek philosophy and religious thinking and vice versa: starting as early as the first half of the first century. During these seminars we provide an introduction and analysis into some key texts from the earliest periods of this still ongoing and fascinating debate.
